The American Business College

The American Business College offers a Bachelor of Business Administration Program and a Bachelor of Luxury. The BBA program is accredited in the United States by the IACBE (International Assembly for Collegiate Business Education) and is recognized in France through its degree certified level I by the French government*.

The American Business College is part of Groupe IGENSIA Education (Institut de Gestion Sociale). It is a not-for-profit higher education institution comprised of 14 schools.

The American Business College is centrally located on the Groupe IGENSIA Education Campus in the 10th arrondissement near the picturesque Canal St. Martin. The IGS Campus comprises several buildings which house 10 different schools and over 3,000 students.

Students are able to choose courses among a large selection of Business, Marketing, Fashion and Luxury Management, Finance, Economics and liberal arts topics.

Credits are transferable to home institution. Students are responsible for confirming with their academic advisor prior to application that the credits earned at The American Business College can be applied towards their degree.

“ Testimonials

"I spent the Spring of my junior year studying at The American Business College, and it was a life-changing experience. At the university, I was surrounded by students from all different cultures and backgrounds. The classes always had an international focus that I lacked back home. I even had the chance to meet native French speakers and practice the language. Then, there was Paris. There was not a weekend that I did not walk out of my apartment and find amazing sites, museums, parks, football matches, food, and everything in between. I experienced what I was like to live in a different continent, filled with different ways of thinking and viewing life. I found out more about who I really was and where I wanted to go"

David, Emory University

"My time at The American Business College allowed me to interact with like-minded students, and incredibly engaging, passionate, industry leaders that I got to experience as educators. Teachers became mentors, classmates became colleagues all through the class structure and opportunities presented to students at American Business School of Paris. The Company Case experience led me onto a path towards a dream career I had not considered. I was on a team where we worked on an event marketing case for Luxury Makers by Auditoire. In this case, we were tasked with developing a creative brief for French Jewelry and timepiece house, Cartier. This challenge allowed me to realize and undiscovered passion that has led me to a summer internship working for VOGUE and Harper's BAZAAR top event planner Easton Events."

Elizabeth, University of South Carolina, Columbia
